

Shine to Rep New VH1 Docuseries

By Kristin Brzoznowski

Published: January 4, 2010

LOS ANGELES: Shine International has inked a distribution deal with High Noon Entertainment for the 8x30-minute series Secrets of Aspen, which premiered on VH1 on January 3.

Secrets of Aspen is High Noon's second show for VH1, following the hit series Tough Love, which is also distributed by Shine International. Secrets of Aspen follows six females over the course of a summer season as they look for love and maintain their close friendships in the resort town of Aspen, Colorado.

"Coming off the success of Tough Love, High Noon has created another hit with Secrets of Aspen," said Chris Grant, the president of Shine International. "There is an international fascination with uniquely American locales like Vegas and Aspen that are unlike any other cities in the world. This show takes you inside Aspen with unfettered access, and we know it will resonate with international buyers who want truly original unscripted content."

"Few producers get the young female audience like our senior VP of development, Pamela Healey, and her team," commented Jim Berger, the CEO of High Noon Entertainment. "They have selected a dynamic, fascinating cast of American women who are searching for love and who aren't afraid to fight for what they want. We're confident that audiences, both female and male, will find this series captivating."

Send this article to a friend